

This is “About the Author”, article 1 from the book A Primer on Politics \(index.html\) (v. 0.0).

This book is licensed under a Creative Commons by-nc-sa 3.0 license. See the license for more details, but that basically means you can share this book as long as you credit the author (but see below), don't make money from it, and do make it available to everyone else under the same terms.

This content was accessible as of December 29, 2012, and it was downloaded then by Andy Schmitz (<http://lardbucket.org>) in an effort to preserve the availability of this book.

Normally, the author and publisher would be credited here. However, the publisher has asked for the customary Creative Commons attribution to the original publisher, authors, title, and book URI to be removed. Additionally, per the publisher's request, their name has been removed in some passages. More information is available on this project's attribution page.

For more information on the source of this book, or why it is available for free, please see the project's home page (<http://2012books.lardbucket.org/>). You can browse or download additional books there.

About the Author

T.M. Sell, Ph.D.

I spent 20 years as a working journalist, covering business, the economy and politics, before finishing my Ph.D. and taking up teaching. I also worked for several years in the Washington state Legislature and saw real politics firsthand. I have been published in a variety of publications including salon.com, Washington Law & Politics, and Washington CEO magazine. I am a past president of the Pacific Northwest Political Science Association and a former Washington Civic Educator of the Year. What I hope to bring to this project is a lot of experience writing for diverse audiences; a lot of experience teaching students from myriad backgrounds and interests; and an understanding of the basics and bigger picture of modern politics.